

From: root@wt6.usdoj.gov@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR,antitrust@ftc.gov@inetgw,Ralph@essen...
Date: 12/5/01 2:45pm
Subject: Microsoft Hegemony: Limits On Corporate Power

CC: letters@latimes.com@inetgw,letters@sjmercury.com@i...

Re: Microsoft Warns of AOL's Power if It Wins Cable Bid

- > Microsoft Corp.'s chief executive expressed
- > concern yesterday over AOL Time Warner Inc.'s
- > bid for AT&T Corp.'s cable network, warning the
- > media and entertainment giant could use the
- > purchase to strengthen its grip on online services.

Ballmer is beating a dead horse because we are seeing that all ecstatically obese corporations are beyond the threshold where efficiencies of scale are lost in the cesspool of power abuse. That AOL is more talented than Microsoft at camouflaging it's cesspool does not spare AOL from the mega-trend that will eventually humble both of them - the ultimate erection of limits on corporate power.

We The People
Take Back Our Flag
From The United Corporations Of America